

Quadro full-extension runner with P₂O
for wooden drawers
Hettich complements push to open range

Kirchlengern/Germany, December 2009. The fully extending Quadro runner with push to open function will soon be available for wooden drawers. Complementing Hettich's push to open range, this provides even more scope in designing handleless fronts for a purist look.

The opening mechanism is actuated by lightly pressing the drawer front. A precision switching mechanism with high triggering accuracy automatically opens the drawer in virtual silence. Fitting the push to open system leaves the qualities of the Quadro runner's approved technology completely unaffected, providing wooden drawers with outstanding running properties. This enhances the added value of furniture just as it does the precision and durability of the Quadro runner system. A broad product line-up provides plenty of scope for creative furniture design.

DIYers benefit from the one-piece version that permits straightforward installation without diverging from standard dimensions and standardised hole patterns. This means the production process remains unchanged no matter which Quadro runner system is fitted. It also makes installation much faster than multiple-component runner solutions. The system is designed for convenient slide-on attachment.

Offering an extensive range of push to open applications for hinges, Hettich is addressing the trend towards handleless furniture design in all areas of the home.
