

Hettich Group commits to science-based climate targets

Official signing of the Science Based Targets initiative (SBTi) agreement

The Hettich Group, one of the world's leading furniture fittings manufacturers headquartered in Kirchzell, has committed to the Science Based Targets initiative (SBTi), thereby reaffirming its pledge to climate protection and a sustainable future. By signing the SBTi agreement, Hettich commits to setting and implementing science-based targets for reducing greenhouse gas emissions in line with the Paris Climate Agreement.

"In line with our motto "Act today, think tomorrow", we at Hettich take responsibility for the world we live in. Signing the SBTi agreement is an important milestone for Hettich and underlines our responsibility to future generations," explains Timo Pieper, Managing Director at Hettich. "We are convinced that by setting clear, science-based targets, we can reduce our carbon footprint, drive innovation and make a positive contribution to climate protection," adds Pavan Jha, Sustainability Manager at Hettich.

Commitment to clear targets and sustainable processes

By joining the SBTi, Hettich commits to the following measures:

- 50% reduction in Scope 1 & 2 emissions by 2030
- Switch to 90% renewable electricity by 2030
- Supplier commitment to Scope 3 reduction

The certificate was signed on behalf of all colleagues in the Hettich Group at this year's press conference.

About the Science Based Targets initiative (SBTi)

The Science Based Targets initiative (SBTi) is a collaboration between the Carbon Disclosure Project (CDP), the United Nations Global Compact, the World Resources Institute (WRI) and the World Wide Fund for Nature (WWF). The SBTi supports companies with an independent, transparent and recognised verification process in setting science-based climate targets for reducing greenhouse gas emissions. This contributes to limiting global warming to a maximum of 1.5°C, as envisaged in the Paris Agreement.
