

Rethinking interior fittings:

More space, more order, more flexibility

Hettich is consolidating its strengths to offer carefully considered solutions for interior fittings. Neat organisation, convenience, individualisation – the wish for easy to use storage space is growing. The family owned company is responding to this trend by presenting a newly defined product segment for storing provisions, cookware, clothing and other items for multifunctional applications – inspired by real life, perfected in every last detail.

Offering this newly positioned lineup, Hettich is underscoring its expertise as a system provider, demonstrating how intelligent cabinet and wardrobe interiors work today. Whether tall units, base units or corner units – fitting systems from Hettich optimise storage spaces behind the furniture front and give them practical functionality. This is where four design lines offer maximum creative flexibility: steel baskets made of round, chrome plated wire, powder-coated steel pull-out shelves with solid surface, pull-out shelves with chrome plated round wire railing or with modern flat wire railing. So there's something for every taste and requirement. Here, design, technology and functionality enter a seamless symbiosis.

One system – many options

Interior fittings from Hettich' guarantee maximum storage space with stylish looks and impressive ergonomics. The consistent concept can be customised and applied in a variety of ways, from classic internal pot-and-pan drawer to carefully considered tall and
